

THE PRODUCTION

Campus Law is a comedy TV show created by Montreal sketch team Moving Mind Studio, fighting to earn $500k in production funds as part of the CBC ComedyCoup Comedy Accelerator program.

With a unique concept, as well as an overwhelmingly positive response from existing Moving Mind Studio fans and new viewers alike, it is amongst the front-runners to be green-lit into production for a half-hour TV special on the CBC Network.

SYNOPSIS

Campus Law is a wild ride following three friends that have seemingly found the perfect way to keep living the college lifestyle after graduation. Taking the expression "stay in school" a little too literally, Robby Gilroy, Quincy Fox and Tag Truman decide to work as security guards at their former campus.

Wanting to fit in with but also demanding that their authority be respected, they constantly get themselves into hilariously uncomfortable situations with teachers and students alike.

STYLE & TONE

A single-cam sitcom with a striking visual style that has never been seen on television, Campus Law incorporates stylized camera movement and sound effects into its storytelling. In addition to the dynamic directing style, Campus Law integrates on-screen graphic elements that offer the viewer glimpses into the minds of the protagonists. Each character "zones out" once in a while, shedding light on their thought process, imagination and fantasies. The visual feel of each character's "zone out" moments reflect their respective character traits.

MOVING MIND STUDIO

Moving Mind Studio, the creators of Campus Law, is a trio of comedian/filmmakers from Montreal that have been making comedy videos together on YouTube for over four years. Their videos have accumulated millions of views, and have had several viral video hits.

Having proven that they can generate laughs and attract large audiences online, they're now fighting for the opportunity to prove that they can bring the same level of success to the world of TV, and are only a few steps away from doing so.

The power to bring Campus Law to life is in the hands of the people. With votes and support from the public over at ComedyCoup.com/CampusLaw we can join the ranks of other hilarious comedians that have made the successful jump from online to on-screen.
