THE SHOW

One Night Only is a new comedy show competing in the CBC ComedyCoup accelerator. It's about four friends who go out for a night that lasts the entire season.

When Mark (the leader), Dan (the stick-in-the-mud), Amy (the wildcard), and Jeremy (the fourth one) head out to celebrate Mark's 30th birthday party, they expect a standard night on the town. But things quickly spiral out of control and the rest of the series is spent getting into and running away from trouble. Like 24 without the terrorism (but still with, like, minor crime), each episode of One Night Only picks up where the last one left off, taking our four idiot heroes from an office party to an art show to an ER to a suburban orgy and beyond.

THE STORY

Why should you care? Well, One Night Only is brought to you by Mark Little (Mr. D) Dan Beirne (Space Riders: Division Earth) and Jeremy Woodcock (22 Minutes), with help from Amy Matysio (Wolfcop, winner of CineCoup, the feature-film version of ComedyCoup). Mark Little and Dan Beirne have been making acclaimed comedy together in Toronto since 2011 and have been gaining notoriety for their combination of heart and silliness. Their series Space Riders: Division Earth was purchased by CTV Extend in Canada and Starz! Digital in the US, and their award-winning series Dad Drives has just been produced as a half-hour pilot for Bite TV. And with One Night Only, they are bringing an equally strong and fun concept to the screen, combined with the huge writing talents of Jeremy Woodcock, and the brilliant comedy of Amy Matysio. Having cut their teeth on the web, they have moved up to cable television, and now the stage is set for network prime-time.
