A CBC sitcom.

Written by 2 immature adults and 1 teen.

Phil was at the top of his game as "The Amish Annihilator" until an injury crushed his dreams of becoming the greatest wrestler of all time. He's now picking up the pieces and starting a new life for himself. Strapped for cash and down on his luck, he moves in with his younger brother Jim, sister-in-law Izzy, and their newly mixed family.

Because of Jim's frequent absence on business outings and, well yeah, Izzy being Izzy, Jim's youngest daughter Anna tries to keep things cool in her new household while balancing the challenges of life as a teenage girl and gifted academic.

In a world where sex and violence are everywhere, there's a strong demand for family programming with Canadian content. Finishing Moves is a Family Comedy set in the suburbs of Vancouver, BC.

Our team of writers consists of show creator Christian Bower, Cindy Rukavina and the input of 'teenage writing phenom' Anna. She adds the perfect touch of relevant issues and dialogue to each episode to help reach the younger audience. We write to provide funny and clean content and strive to keep Canadian comedy alive in the challenging 2014 media climate.
